

Balerno, Broughton and Dumbryden Schools, Edinburgh

For The City of Edinburgh Council

In the light of the Cullen Report, ARCADE examined the security arrangements at a number of primary and secondary Schools for the City of Edinburgh Council. Both passive and active security measures were introduced in order to reduce the likelihood of opportunistic vandalism and increase the levels of security. Airlock type systems were also introduced at main entrances, and the opportunity taken to upgrade the appearance of these areas to promote a more positive school ethos to the public.
